Selectmen consider action on two licenses

By Don Staruk

Selectmen Monday night considered taking action on two alcohol licenses, one that is causing a delay in the opening of a new sports bar on Park Street, and the other, which has become a problem with the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission.

The first involves the former Andover Grill at 40 Park St. The entire row of buildings where the Grill is located, called Lanes End after former owner Georgina Lane of 13 Bartlet St., was foreclosed on last year. The buildings were purchased at auction by David Kiu of Somerville and the Grill space was leased to Richard Pruneau, a former Andover resident looking to open

PLO/Israeli peace accord hits home

By Neil Fater

Jericho and Andover are separated by several bodies of water and many more thousands of miles. But the joy expressed Monday on the West Bank could be felt throughout the world, throughout the West, and throughout our small town, as Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO head Yasser Arafat, sworn enemies but a short time ago, exchanged goodwill instead of gunshots.

"I do believe the Jewish community is happy with this," said Rabbi Robert Goldstein of Andover's Temple Emanuel, shortly after the leaders clasped hands. "Wednesday night begins the New Y mear. Let's celebrate the moment."

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, has long been a time to celebrate the moment of hope and potential that a new beginning can bring. But with Monday's

Home invader strikes in Andover

Suspect captured Wednesday at gunpoint in Somerville

By Don Staruk

A burglar who allegedly invaded at least seven occupied homes in a neighborhood off South Main Street early Monday morning, Sept. 13, was taken into custody at gunpoint yesterday in Somerville.

Kenneth N. Testa Jr., 27, a former Salem-area resident, was arraigned in Lynn District Court yesterday.

"The woman grabbed her two kids and ran out the door screaming."

One of the first things Mr. Testa said was, "I'm not armed," according to Steve O'Connell of the Essex County district attorney's office.

Police said Mr. Testa had bleached his hair, cut his sideburns and was wearing sunglasses.

In Andover Monday, the alleged intruder woke several residents from their sleep but did not confront or attack anyone before fleeing in a stolen car. The suspect tried but

Marland Mills proposal gets initial approval

By Don Staruk

The Planning Board Tuesday night approved two preliminary subdivision proposals for the former Marland Mills property off Stevens Street, the first step in owner Bertram Paley's plans to construct a supermarket and 100 assisted-living apartments on the site.

In a separate public hearing also Tuesday night, the Historical Commission considered Mr. Paley's proposal to completely demolish one of the two "historically significant" mill buildings on the site and partially demolish the second building. The commission voiced no strong objections to the demolition plans, but indicated it might use the power of the demolition delay bylaw, under which it could delay the demolition for up to a year, to exact conditions regarding preservation of the remaining mill building from Mr. Paley.

The commission delayed a decision on the two separate demolition requests until its next meeting, Thursday, Oct. 14. Historic Commission members will tour the site with representatives of the developer between now and then.

Preliminary plans

Both preliminary subdivision proposals approved Tuesday were submitted solely to protect certain dimensional rights threatened by

Israeli-PLO reaction here

signing of the Israeli-Palestine Liberation Organization peace accord, the week of Rosh Hashanah was filled with greater hope and potential than many thought would ever be possible.

"I'm pleased with the idea, quite pleased with the agreement," concurred Magid Mazen of Andover, founding member of the Arab-Jewish Dialog in Boston, and associate professor of management at the School of Management at Suffolk University in Boston. "My overall feeling is positive and excited."

Though many people were shocked at the original announcement that such an accord was in the works, Dr. Mazen said that, looking back, this all computed. In fact, this accord had been long in the works in the back of Jewish and Arab minds well before it entered Norwegian back rooms.

(Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak) "Rabin came to power promising a pro-active step toward this problem," said Dr. Mazen, who is trained in and teaches the art of negotiating, among other subjects. "In the meantime, developments on both sides clearly show that this is the best time to exchange the peace at hand."

"[Former President Jimmy] Carter knew in June they were heading for this," said Rabbi Goldstein, "which means a lot of behind-the-scenes stuff was going on."

"This agreement is something close to what had to happen to reach peace. We'd reached the psychological point where both sides were tired of fighting," said Curtis Martin, chairman of the political science department at Merrimack College.

Rabbi Goldstein lived in Israel in 1976-'77 and sensed a tiring with the toil of warfare then.

"I really felt at that time that there had to be some resolution. It was a relationship of absolutes and that's a very frightening process," he said.

The people in the Middle East and here in the Merrimack Valley wanted peace, said Rabbi Goldstein. "Since I've lived in Andover the last three and a half years, I've developed friends in the Lebanese community in Lawrence," he said. "I've sensed desire to see peace. And I've sensed the same desire in the Jewish community."

"We [Arabs and Jews] live here in America with peace and I think that's a goal to work for," he said. "That should be the model. I hope and pray that will be the case because it is vital to the Middle East. Both the Jewish and Arab cultures have made great contributions, contributions much more noble than the military ones. Let that be our gift."

Rabbi Goldstein's belief that peace is what people wanted has been supported by recent polls, according to Dr. Mazen.

"Recent polls show 65 percent in the West Bank and Gaza are in favor of the accord," he said. For this reason, Dr. Mazen said he does not think the extremists on either side will be able to undo what good has come of this.

"The important thing about extremists is they must have grass roots to support it," he said. "And the grass roots are in favor of the peace movement."

Despite the hopeful words, though, everyone knows much work remains to be done.

"One must not be negligent of the inertia of the existing infrastructure from the last 45 years. There is an archetype that has been imprinted in everyone's behavior," said Dr. Mazen. (There is a photo) "of a Palestinian young kid painting graffiti on the wall, 'Death to Arafat.' Someone must have indoctrinated that kid. It will take a while to undo that."

Dr. Mazen is quick to point out that after years of hatred, the two people are not about to agree on every future issue. Comparing the Israel-PLO relationship to marriage, he said that even after courting, 50 percent of U.S. marriages end in divorce. "After 45 years of hostility without dating, you can expect a little bit more (disagreement) than with marriage," he said.

"Making peace is different from making love. I can have peace with you, but I don't have to love you," said Dr. Mazen.

In addition to past prejudice, other problems that lie in wait include the need for other agreements between other regional nations such as Syria and Egypt with Israel.

"If the process is too slow," warned Dr. Martin, professor of international relations and comparative politics, "then the whole thing can unravel."

"The Middle East is a lot different than Andover," concluded Dr. Mazen. "I live in Andover and I have two sisters in Saudi Arabia. They were being defended (in the Gulf War) by Patriot missiles made across the street from me."

Town receives $4,145 for arts

Senator John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, and Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, jointly announce that the Andover Cultural Council has received funding for the 1994 fiscal year. Andover was one of 336 local communities selected to receive a local cultural council grant from the Massachusetts Cultural Council. These grants are used to support cultural and educational endeavors, which promote the arts, humanities and sciences.

The Andover Cultural Council received $4,145. This money was awarded based on a local aid formula. The local cultural council, made up of many volunteers and chaired by Andover resident Ronald Wackowski, is responsible for reviewing grant applications and submitting recommendations to the Massachusetts Cultural Council for the agency's final decision.

The primary use of these funds is to provide grants to support public cultural programs, including PASS, a ticket subsidy program for children.

Sen. O'Brien, D-Andover, is pleased that the town of Andover received this funding because, "These grants are important to ensure that the vibrant cultural component in our community is maintained."

Rep. Coon, R-Andover, stated, "These grants significantly contribute to our quality of life and I am pleased that Andover received this award."

Anyone wishing further information on the grant, or to apply for grant funds, contact Ronald Wackowski, chairman of the Andover Arts Council, at 475-4242, or write to Selma Flieder, Andover Town House, 20 Main St., attention Mr. Wackowski.

Tony Torrisi recommends a Special Town Meeting

By Don Staruk

Tony Torrisi, Andover's budget and finance director, Monday night recommended selectmen plan a Special Town Meeting to appropriate approximately $820,000 in state aid, most of which is education aid.

"I think it's very risky to wait until Town Meeting," Mr. Torrisi said.

Last year the town received $492,200 in Per-Pupil Education aid, but because that aid was in the form of a grant, its appropriation did not require town meeting approval. This year the town will receive the $492,000 plus an additional $264,108 in "New Education Aid," all of which falls under Chapter 70 education aid. But according to the new Education Reform law, a Special Town Meeting is now required to appropriate all the Chapter 70 education aid, according to Mr. Torrisi.

According to the law, the appropriation doesn't have to be made prior to the tax rate being set in December, so a Special Town Meeting is not mandatory. The schools could operate on an assumption that the money will be appropriated in a certain category come the regular Town Meeting in April.

"But it's a very risky business proposition" to operate that way, Mr. Torrisi told board members.

Mr. Torrisi recommended the board hold joint discussions with the School Committee and Finance Committee before making a final decision, but said it would be "dangerous" to delay the appropriation until April, when there would be less than three months left in the fiscal year, not enough time to make any significant financial changes.

Mr. Torrisi said he and Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, just received the state's confirmation Monday morning that the town meeting appropriation was required for spending the Chapter 70 money.

Town Clerk Randy Hanson said a Special Town Meeting costs the town about $5,000 to orchestrate.

In response to questions from the board, Mr. Torrisi said waiting until April to appropriate the money would probably not affect the town's bond rating or its ability to borrow at low interest rates. But he reminded selectmen that a similar situation occurred in 1989, when state aid came in lower than had been optimistically predicted, causing a budget deficit. That time the town and school departments had to be granted special permission from the state to operate under the presumption that the subsequent Town Meeting would make sufficient cuts to cover the deficit, which it did. But some residents were upset at that type of operation and Mr. Torrisi said it is difficult to operate that way.

Selectmen Chairman William Downs will meet with the chairpersons of the School and Finance committees between now and the Board of Selectmen's next meeting, on Sept. 27, to attempt to make a decision on whether to call a Special Town Meeting. If one is to be held, it would probably be in mid-November, according to Mr. Stapczynski.

Hazardous waste collection set for October

Andover will hold a hazardous-waste collection next month, the first here in three years. The collection is tentatively scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 23, 9-3 at West Elementary.

Residents can get rid of paints, oil, antifreeze, pesticides and other hazardous materials. Collections were held for three years, 1985-1990. Three were held jointly with North Andover. The cost ranged from $5,000 for the first collection to $30,000 for the last one. Since then, no funding has been available for a collection.

At April Town Meeting, voters approved $20,000 in the Health Department budget for a collection. The Board of Health put the specifications for a collection out to bid, received six responses, opened them Monday night and awarded a contract to General Chemical of Framingham, for $15,930.

Hearing Health

Q: Are two hearing aids better than one?
A: This is always an individual decision, depending on your hearing loss, finances and motivation. The majority of people hear significantly better when listening with both ears at the same time. A person using binaural (both ears) hearing aids has the following advantages: better hearing at distances and in noisy backgrounds, a feeling of balance between the ears, an easier time following conversation with more than one person, and better localization of sound. By trying two instruments, one can fully judge the benefits of two aids over either the left or right one individually. Be sure when purchasing instruments that the contract allows easy and economical return privileges if you decide one aid is best for you.

Please call (508) 475-9595 if you would like any more information on this or any other hearing related issue. Audio Hearing Center is conveniently located at 79 North Main St., Andover, across from the fire station.

Ken Levine spends a day with the Red Sox

By Alix Driscoll

In the heat of August and pennant fever, Ken Levine, of 23 Abbot St., stepped up to the plate at Fenway Park and smashed a hit off the Green Monster, sending a very sizeable donation to the Jimmy Fund for cancer research. The Andover batter slammed the famed left field wall in the second annual John Hancock Fantasy Day at "Friendly Fenway."

He said he had many opportunities to see the Red Sox when he was growing up in Worcester.

"The Red Sox were my passion," he said.

A first baseman for many years, Mr. Levine played at Worcester Academy and with

Merrill Lynch opens here

By Don Staruk

Merrill Lynch Private Client Group opened an office on Main Street in Andover last week, aiming to capture a bigger piece of the Merrimack Valley financial services market.

The new office opened Monday, Aug. 30, at 2 Elm Square in the space most recently occupied by Century 21 Minuteman Realty, which moved to High Street at the beginning of August.

"Maybe by Nov. 1 we'll get signs up," Jeff Ferrante, assistant vice president and office manager, said this week.

A grand opening and a ribbon-cutting ceremony will be held some time in October, Mr. Ferrante said.

Mr. Ferrante and Jay Curley, both long-time Andover residents now living in North Andover, are heading up the new Merrimack Valley office. Mr. Curley, vice president, has been with Merrill Lynch for 32 years. Mr. Ferrante has been with Merrill nine years. The two have worked together for the last four years out of the Merrill Lynch office in Burlington.

Bernard Cavanagh, who grew up in Andover, and Michael Mak, of North Andover, are the two other financial consultants in the office. Two administrative staff members complete the contingent.

Mr. Ferrante and Mr. Curley have been operating Merrill Lynch's Merrimack Valley business out of the Burlington office for four years. Opening the Andover office is part of a trend not only with Merrill Lynch, but in the financial investment industry in general - to go out and become part of the community.

"People like to do business locally," Mr. Ferrante said.

In Newton or Framingham, residents don't mind going into Boston for their financial services, according to market research, Mr. Ferrante said. But in the Merrimack Valley, people would rather do business locally, with people they see in church or around town, he said.

"This is really part of an effort to make it more convenient for our clients to do business with us," Mr. Ferrante said.

A market analysis focusing on what Merrill Lynch classifies as "priority households," those with annual incomes of $75,000 or more, indicated a "significant market opportunity in the Merrimack Valley," according to Mr. Ferrante.

"That's considered our target market," he said.

Geographically, penetration by Merrill Lynch of those households in the Merrimack Valley was the lowest north of Boston.

Full range of services

The new office will offer the full spectrum of Merrill Lynch services, to individuals and businesses, for both the sophisticated and unsophisticated investor.

Merrill Lynch focuses much of its attention on "conservative investment management for the individual" and family, Mr. Ferrante said.

While his office will gladly take on a client who wants to invest $1 million or more, it also will accept the individual who wants to invest $100 per quarter in a mutual fund.

"People can get into the market with a hundred bucks," Mr. Ferrante said. "We love to deal with million-dollar accounts, but we'll deal with anybody who is serious about saving."

Mr. Ferrante said it is never too early to learn about investments and that he has bought stocks in Disney and McDonald's Corp. for his own children. He often gives a stock certificate from one of those corporations as a gift when a friend has a new baby.

Although the new office will reach out as far east as the seacoast and west to Lowell, Mr. Ferrante said much of the focus will be on the Salem, N.H., Andovers and Methuen area.

Mr. Ferrante hopes to organize some type of regular financial seminars or discussions at the new office, possibly on a weekly basis and open to anyone interested.

"We want to reach out to the town and give the town what is needed," Mr. Ferrante said.

"There's not another firm locally that has the support services, the financial muscle or ongoing training programs Merrill Lynch has," Mr. Ferrante said.

Merrill Lynch has $600 billion of individual client assets under management.

The new office is open 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays, and during the evening hours by appointment.

Dr. Haim Levkowitz

Dr. Haim Levkowitz, an Andover resident and assistant professor of computer science at UMass Lowell, recently wrote a paper on color that was published in a prominent computer graphics journal.

Dr. Levkowitz, of 13 Jefferson Lane, author of "GLHS: A Generalized Lightness, Hue, and Saturation Color Mode," had his paper published in the July issue of CVGIP: Graphical Models and Image Processing, a journal in the fields of computer vision, graphics and image processing.

His paper introduces a generalization of several color models in computer graphics as a unified family of models. It also derives the mathematical and algorithmic relationship of this family to other color models, and discusses its application for information presentation. This might help develop more effective presentations of multi-dimensional information and richer color specification and manipulation in computer graphics.

Dr. Levkowitz has been with the computer science department four years. His areas of research are scientific data visualization and information presentation and representation. He is a founding member of the Institute for Visualization and Perception Research at the university. The paper was co-authored by Gabor T. Herman of the radiology department at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Marsha McDonough named to school- goals commission

The state Department of Education has named Marsha Friel McDonough, superintendent-director of the Greater Lawrence Technical School, to serve on a 40-member commission to develop new and comprehensive educational goals for Massachusetts public school students by June 1994.

Ms. McDonough directs the operational and educational process at the school, which is the second largest technical high school in Massachusetts. Formerly, she was principal of Waltham public schools and an English teacher in Wakefield.

The Commission on the Common Core of Learning will be chaired by Martin S. Kaplan of Newton, chairman of the state Board of Education, and Madeline S. Marquez of Amherst, a board member. Robert V. Antonucci, state commissioner of education, will be an ex-officio member.

"Under the Education Reform Act, signed into law in June, there will be a significant departure from the current practice of limited or nonexistent statewide involvement in establishing curriculum goals," Mr. Antonucci said in announcing the commission's formation. "The law requires the state board to establish a set of statewide educational goals for all public elementary and secondary schools and a set of specific student academic performance standards in math, science, technology, history, social science, English, foreign languages and the arts."

The commission will complete its work by June of 1994. Curriculum frameworks will follow in 1985. Some other members of the commission who come from this area are: Michael Gallagher of Lowell, a trial attorney with the firm of Donahue and Donahue of Lowell and former chair of the Lowell City-wide Parent Council; Rena P. Mirkin, principal of Reading Memorial High School.

The Andover High class of '97 was greeted by this contingent of smiling volunteers. They oriented the freshmen to their new surroundings.

Orientation day eases the transition for AHS freshmen

By Chris Stamm

The Andover High School freshman class traded the bright sunny days of summer for the bright yellow-orange shine of school buses as they entered their first day of high school Tuesday, Sept. 7.

To make this transition a little easier, faculty members organized a special freshman orientation, with sophomores, juniors and seniors working as volunteers.

The purpose of this orientation was "to acclimate the freshmen to the workings of the school," said English teacher Dave Gangi. Seen from the freshmen perspective, the most important "acclimating" dealt with acquainting the new class with the school building. Orientation day began with tours led by the many AHS volunteer upperclassmen who came to school a day early to lend a hand.

As described by freshman Stephen Milmo of 1 Landau Lane, "This place is huge!" However, Mr. Milmo looked on his new surroundings lightheartedly, adding, "Being lost is OK — as long as you know where you're going."

Once the students had a feel for their new school and had attended a few classes, they met with administrators to become familiar with school policy. Aside from the expected "laying down of the law" (describing disciplinary measures, etc.), the administration welcomed the class of '97, offering some early advice.

In addressing the class, Principal Tim Thomas urged students to do their best.

"What you accomplish in the next four years will have a tremendous impact on the rest of your life," said Mr. Thomas.

Andover public schools and the School Committee will sponsor a community forum to present a summary of Andover's Youth Risk Behavior Survey results.

The seminar will be held Monday, Sept. 20, at 7 p.m. on the third floor of Memorial Hall Library.

The survey was administered last spring to approximately 500 Andover High School students. It was designed to examine the risk of HIV/AIDS infection among Andover's adolescents.

The forum will give the community an opportunity to learn the results of the survey and discuss HIV/AIDS infection-prevention strategies, including the advisability of condom availability. Statewide data will be available for comparative analysis.

All Andover residents are encouraged to attend.

The Andona Society will sponsor its annual babysitting course, aimed at providing girls and boys in grades 6-8 with good babysitting skills and confidence. SCHOOLTALK

Several students from Pike School have received recognition from the New England Math League for their performance in the league's annual contest last spring.

Former eighth-graders Mark Ewalt and Adam Steinert tied for fourth place in Essex County at this grade level. The eighth-grade team, consisting of Ewalt, Steinert, Joshua Lemaitre, Dylan Pecelli, Tyler Simons and Daniel Ward, placed second in Essex County. Pike placed 16th in a field of 305 eighth-grade teams in New England.

Pike's seventh-grade team earned the plaque at that level for placing first in Essex County and tied for 19th place among 301 schools in New England. Seventh-grader Vanessa Ho placed second at her grade level in Essex County and 18th in New England. Other team members were Christopher Diamond, William Hankey, Daniel Kulp, Sean McGrath and Benjamin Park.

Sixth-grader Max Sung placed first at his grade level in Essex County. Other team members were Jillian Booty, Ethan Jacobs, Kacey Mulgrew, Tynan Sammataro-Hutchins and Patricia Waters.

Summerscape is a program for gifted students in grades 6-9. The program offers an opportunity for students to enhance their areas of interest, investigate new ideas and work with other high-ability students. Courses are selected and planned to provide academic challenge and creative experiences.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

NEGOTIATING FACTORS

When you are selling a home, it is easy to be offended by buyers who are making an offer on your property. Even if they love your house they are trying to negotiate the best price and terms possible, and they probably will not let you know how much they want the place until their offer is a ratified sales agreement.

Buyers almost never write offers that entirely please sellers. The price may be too low, and they might ask for concessions such as closing costs or work to be done on the house. Offers and counter offers may be traded back and forth over a few days or even weeks. When there is finally a meeting of the minds, both sides might feel somewhat worn down by the whole process. One of a Realtor's most important jobs is acting as the go-between during the negotiations, explaining each side's needs to the other and trying to work out a satisfactory compromise. With our knowledge of financing, negotiation procedures, and the tax laws affecting real estate sales, we can often come up with the creative solutions to many of the problems that arise.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Please call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

Western theme set for West Fest

This year's West Fest Carnival at West Middle School will display a new look.

All promotional material, including T-shirts, will bear a new logo designed by eighth-grade student Sean Chicarello of Blanchard Street (in photo at left).

A logo contest, launched

West Fest is the weekend of Oct. 1-3 in June among the students, was designed to produce a winning promotion. The WMS student council gave Sean's design the highest score.

His design depicts a cow boy hat, cacti and a blazing sun against a desert sky, appropriately depicting the western tone for West Fest.

Sean's prize is VIP tickets to West Fest for all three days, Oct. 1-3, entitling him to free games, rides and candy.

Classes at Pike School get underway for 405 students

Classes at Pike School began Monday, Sept. 13, for 405 students from 35 communities in the Merrimack Valley. These numbers represent a full enrollment and a wider geographical distribution of students compared with last year.

At a time when some schools are faced with cutbacks, Pike has increased its staff to include a technology coordinator and assistant director of the intern program that operates in conjunction with Lesley College, according to Pike officials.

Pike maintains a one-to-eight faculty-student ratio.

Ten percent of Pike's students are receiving financial aid from a budget of more than $200,000. Three students in grades 7-9 have been awarded full-tuition scholarships under a special Pike program for financially disadvantaged students from the Merrimack Valley. Pike tuitions range from $4,700 to $9,250.

Pike, an independent coed day school on Sunset Rock Road, enrolls students in pre-kindergarten through grade 9.

Marland Village recognized for its historical value

By Barbara Thibault
Andover Historical Society

History certainly deals with the past, but it also provides insight into the present and provokes questions for the future. A good example of this continuity is the historic Marland Village, dating from the 1820s. It was recognized for its historical, industrial and architectural significance 10 years ago by its inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places, but today its future is threatened. [See news story, page 1.]

At the Andover Historical Society's Research Center, an extensive and complimentary newspaper article from the Andover Advertiser published Aug. 8, 1884, describes this neighborhood bordered by Stevens Street, formerly Marland Street, and North

Main Street:

"For several years past the Marland Factory property has been undergoing changes and improvements... it has become one of the neatest and tideliest factory villages in New England. Passing down Main Street towards Frye Village, the attention of the traveller is attracted to the snowy whiteness of the tenement blocks, on the left hand of the great thoroughfare, each having a beautifully embellished flower patch in the front yard...

"The beauty of any country village is much enhanced by tree-shaded streets and a public square, or several if they may be provided for. It stands to reason that our suburban towns will gradually increase in residences, population, and the added refinements that come from a wise foresight in providing attractive streets good roadways, comfortable turnings at corners, a drinking fountain at some of the prominent crossing, and the various improvements that bespeak a looking ahead to the time when the children shall rise up and bless those whose judicious expenditures have made out of probabilities, possibilities....

"From one who is desirous that the town of Andover may lose none of its charms and may not neglect its opportunities."

Rabbi A. Osher Bronstein (right) shows the children of the new playgroup Gan Yeladim how to blow the shofar, or ram's horn, a symbol of repentance and spiritual awakening on Rosh Hashana, which began last night at sundown. The children learned how to make the carved, sanded and shellacked shofars, to become more involved in the preparations and celebration of the High Holy Days. The playgroup is organized by Chabad Lubavitch of the Merrimack Valley. Also in the photo are Mindy Kates, the playgroup organizer, holding Marci Kates and Jonathan Berke; below them are Mushka Bronstein, Malka Solomont and Jenniffer Dudley, who also holds a shofar.

Jewish community is observing '10 Days of Repentance'

By Rabbi Robert S. Goldstein
Temple Emanuel of Andover

There is an old story told by Rabbi Chaim of Zanz, told and retold during the High Holy season, a time of great spiritual and religious importance for the Jewish community.

A man was wandering about lost in a forest. Suddenly he looked up, and saw someone approaching him. His heart filled with joy, "Now I shall certainly find the way out."

When he reached the stranger, he asked him, "Brother, tell me which is the right way. I have been wandering about in this forest for several days."

Said the other to him, "Brother, I do not know the way out either. For I too have been wandering about for many, many days. But this I can tell you: Do not take the way I have been taking, for this will lead you astray. But together, I know we will find our way out of the forest."

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, which is observed today, Sept. 16, and tomorrow, and Yom Kippur, which falls on Friday evening and Saturday, Sept. 24 and 25, are among the holiest days on the Jewish calendar. These days are in fact a journey. It is that time of the year when every Jew is urged to take a spiritual "inventory" of his or her life; to ask him or herself, "Where have we been?" "Where are we?" and even more importantly, "Where are we going?"

Most Jewish holy days are home-centered. Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur revolve around the synagogue and community. One can not observe these days alone. It is a communal enterprise (take a look at the parking lot of any temple on Yom Kippur morning) where rabbi and congregant alike seek to prod each other a bit and from each other find the inspiration to imbue our holiday prayers, and in turn our lives with meaning and purpose.

On Rosh Hashana we must honestly weigh the important relationships in our lives; to consider our connection to parents and children; to evaluate our faith in ourselves and in our God. Ultimately, we hope to emerge from these sacred days with greater spiritual strength, ready to meet the challenges of a New Year, with renewed hope, faith, and a desire to make our lives and our world a better place for all to live.

The 10 days that extend from the beginning of Rosh Hashana to the end of Yom Kippur are known as the

"10 Days of Repentance." These days represent a journey toward increased self-awareness, a heightened sensitivity, leading ultimately to a deeper relationship with those whom we love, with our people and our God.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

ALL THINGS BEING EQUAL

In an effort to stabilize teeth that are loose but sound, the dentist may undertake a procedure known as equilibration. Its goal is to ensure that upper and lower teeth mesh together evenly to create a balanced bite. The benefit to patients is that chewing pressure is directed straight down to the root of each tooth to stabilize the bite. As a result, loose teeth are unlikely to become even more so due to rocking back and forth in their sockets. This is especially important to periodontal patients whose gum disease has left them vulnerable to loosening teeth. By having the patient bite down on articulating paper, the dentist can mark high spots in the bite. When these are smoothed down, it removes any excess or misdirected pressure that would otherwise serve to loosen teeth.

One thing teeth rarely suffer from is an excess of good home health care. Treat your teeth to a conscientious program of daily brushing and flossing. When discomfort or a problem does develop, quick attention by a dentist can minimize resulting treatment. We bring you this column in order to help you understand the importance of good oral hygiene and to offer some practical hints to help you and your family. For complete family dental care, call us at 475-2431, 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. Hours: Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6 and by appointment.

PS: Equilibration involves only smoothing down the tooth's outer enamel layer and causes no pain or harm to the teeth.

Government should be held accountable

Editor, Townsmen:

I found Mr. Bloom's guest column on the subject of unlimited growth thought-provoking (Sept. 2, page 30, "A must: Choosing to have small families"). I am also concerned and have misgivings about the amount of growth taking place in Andover and the ramifications in the delivery of services and taxes.

This growth was most noticeable in the 1980s during booming times, when greed and speculation was rampant. We are experiencing a bad economy, we must take advantage of this slow growth to determine what is best for Andover in the forceable future.

There is talk of converting single-family to multi-family, reducing lot size requirements and additional affordable housing.

What is the leadership hidden agenda for Andover? A town? or a city?

When Proposition 2 1/2 was passed, officials in Andover immediately decided they were going to continue business as usual, taking advantage of the additional growth allowed to tax under 2 1/2. The level of growth that was to take place each year was driven by the amount of expansion in the size and scope of government they were building into their budgets. This unlimited growth is the reason why we have crowded schools, excessive traffic, pollution and noise, future water supply needs and additional demands on decaying infrastructure.

This is contrary to the wishes expressed by the citizens of Andover during 21st Century meetings. Preserving open space and the character of the town is what most people want. How many Andover families would stand silently by, allowing their children to run up unlimited dollar amounts on their credit cards or telephone bills? I suspect not many. Yet, we are incredibly complacent, allowing our public servants, our employees to run up our tax bills, set our fees (especially busing fees) and fines at any level they choose, stick their hands in our pockets every time their excesses, inefficiencies, miscalculations and misappropriation of our tax dollars make it necessary to have more.

I am no longer willing to hand over my hard-earned tax dollars to a government in order to support their wasteful and irresponsible spending, without demanding more accountability and fiscal responsibility.

We are a town full of inconsistencies. Officials are hoping to build affordable housing so we can have a diverse population, importing them from here and there to fill the units built in the 1980s while driving out people who have lived here for years contributing to the community, because they can no longer afford the spiraling tax rate and the overburdened cost of government.

We need to clarify the roles here. We citizens are the "EMPLOYERS." Public servants are the "EMPLOYEES." Total Quality Management that has been embraced recently by Andover officials is based on a faulty premise. I am very tired of being referred to as the "CUSTOMER." The relationship between the government and its citizens is not a customer relationship, it is an employer versus employee relationship. What is missing in Andover is more openness, accountability and a government who's first priority is to serve its citizenry.

Citizens working together can take back control of the level of spending and direction of this town.

Preserve old stone railroad bridges

Editor, Townsmen:

If (Town Manager) Mr. Strapzinski has ever seen the old stone bridges of the Rockefeller carriage roads in Bar Harbour, Maine, I think he would feel as Mrs. Abbott does about the destruction of the natural beauty of the Horn Bridge.

We should be ever so careful not to destroy those things that make New England separate and distinctive from the other regions of this country. Old stone railroad bridges are an essential part of what New England is about; let's not destroy them.

I admire Mrs. Abbott's effort and wish her success.

Getting to know downtown

years. He had agreed to help Ms. McNemar with the scavenger hunt.

Ms. McNemar said the hunt was helpful because students learned what they need to know about downtown Andover, but there was an added benefit. When the American new students arrived on campus from out of town and wanted to know where to get a hair cut, for instance, it was the foreign students who knew the answer. In years past, the foreign students might have been more shy and take more time to mix with others on campus.

I was able to greet most of the students who dropped by the Townsmen office. They were all very polite and answered our questions. I am sure every downtown business they visited wanted to know the same thing: What country are you from?

They were from South Africa, China, Hong Kong, Canada, Australia, London, France, Saudi Arabia, Germany and the Republic of Sammarimo, are the countries I remember, but I am sure there were others.

Simona Montanari, the young woman on the far right in the photo on the previous page, told me she is from the Republic of Sammarimo, and when I looked puzzled, she told me it is in Italy. In fact, Ms. McNemar told me Simona's country is the smallest republic in the world.

Simona said everyone downtown was friendly. "All you Americans are so friendly and you all are smiling," she said, her face lit up with a smile.

The Horn Bridge on Central Street was closed Oct. 26, 1992, for repairs, and re-opened July 14. The old steel-grate bridge and supporting abutments were completely replaced with new abutments and an entirely new steel-reinforced concrete deck with a paved surface. Some residents have complained about the Jersey barriers on the south side and the bridge railing on the north side, saying the work is not in keeping with the look of an old bridge. The bridge at Stevens Street, near the post office, is now closed. It has some of the same problems as the Central Street bridge had and is due to be re-opened in November.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

OTHER FACETS TO CONSIDER

By running one's fingers down the center of the back, one can feel the bony projections known as the spinous process. On either side of this central line of bone are facet joints which link each spinal bone (vertebra) with the one above and below. Surrounding each facet joint is a capsule of connective tissue which secretes a fluid (synovial fluid) that lubricates the hinges so that they might move freely. Taken as a whole, the facet joint is designed to direct and limit movement of the spine. Facet joints are not intended to carry excess body weight. Therefore, when people overextend themselves by lifting heavy objects with an arched back, it sets the stage for inflammation or even fracturing of the facet joints. The result is back pain that might have been otherwise prevented.

Many symptoms can result from a variety of physical and emotional problems, too. We offer safe, natural and drug-free methods for every member of your family. Please call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. We accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. When facet joints are lined up precisely, above and below, they permit the back to bend with very little friction among bones.

Andover gridders kick off season with 17-7 win

By Rick Harrison

With senior Captain Toby Guzowski's outstanding two-way performance leading the charge, the Andover High football team launched its 1993 season in impressive fashion with a 17-7 Merrimack Valley Conference victory over Lawrence High last weekend at Lovely Field.

The Golden Warriors have this week off to savor the win, get their injured players healthy and correct the inevitable first-game mistakes.

Next Friday night (Sept. 24) Head Coach Dick Collins's crew returns to conference play at Cawley Stadium in Lowell (7 p.m.), facing a revitalized Red Raiders team that opened with a 17-6 victory against Haverhill.

Andover's triumph over Lawrence was its ninth straight and 11th in the last 12 games against the Lancers, who haven't beaten the Warriors since a 28-3 decision in 1984.

AHS has outscored Lawrence by a huge 250-19 margin and registered six shutouts over the past nine years.

This was also only the second opening-game victory for Andover in seven years, the locals losing four straight times to Chelmsford between 1987-90 and 6-0 last September to eventual Eastern Mass. Division 2-A Super Bowl champ Methuen.

Guzowski tough

Toby Guzowski, a 6'2", 200-pound running back-strong safety, led by example against Lawrence.

On offense, in the absence of injured backfield partner Dave Jorgenson (shoulder), Guzowski took charge by scoring both Andover touchdowns on first-half runs of 17 and seven yards.

He finished the game with 69 yards rushing on 11 carries (6.3 average), and he also caught four passes from senior quarterback Jeff Brammer (7-14-0, 58 yards).

Defensive coordinator Joe Iarrobino credited Guzowski with 12 tackles as well, eight of which were unassisted.

"Toby was all over the field," noted Iarrobino. "He's a legitimate Division 1 college prospect."

The Golden Warriors rolled out to a 17-0 halftime lead, scoring on three of its first four offensive series with freshman place-kicker Brian Tisbert contributing a 27-yard field goal and a pair of perfect extra point placements.

Lawrence, a much improved team over last year's winless edition, thrashed 40-0 by Andover, controlled much of the second half and scored in the final minute when Pedro Perez capped a 17-play drive with a one-yard plunge.

Two-way players

"We had a lot of players going both ways," said Coach Iarrobino. "By the fourth quarter they weren't playing with the emotion and pep they had early in the game."

"We also kept the Lawrence (TD) drive alive with three crucial penalties, a roughing the passer and two offside calls, all on fourth down plays."

Iarrobino and Collins both lauded the defensive work of junior inside linebacker Pete Daniels, 6'3", 190-pound sophomore end Dana McCann and junior noseguard

Mike Dalton.

Coach Collins feels this week's early-season bye will help the Golden Warriors.

"There are good and bad sides to the lay-off. It gives us a chance to work on our mistakes and get our injured players healthy. It's like another week of pre-season."

"The only disadvantage is that (Lowell) will have played twice, and that extra game experience will help them."

Swimmers, runners prepare for season

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls swim team opens its season tomorrow afternoon when it hosts Lowell High in a Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet at the Greater Lawrence Regional Vo-Tech pool.

The first event hits the water at 3:30 p.m.

Lady Warriors' second-year Head Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald is looking for "two or three more wins than last year" when AHS finished 4-5-0, and feels "in two years we should be loaded."

Andover participated in the non-scoring pre-season MVC Relay Carnival last Friday at Haverhill, and there were numerous encouraging performances.

The boys and girls cross country teams, meanwhile, launch their MVC schedules next Wednesday, Sept. 22 at Central Catholic.

The boys will run against both Central and Lawrence High in a tri-meet, while the girls face Lawrence in a dual meet (3:30 p.m.).

Andover will also participate in the annual Wilmington Invitational this Saturday.

Seventh-year Coach Leo Lafond is looking for at least a duplicate of last year's winning record from the boys' team, while the girls team is young (only two seniors), but should be competitive with several traditional MVC powers hit hard by graduation (Tewksbury), transfers (Chelmsford) and a tragic death in an automobile accident over the summer (BillERICA).

AHS shuts out foe on golf course

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High golf team opened its season the best way possible, whitewashing non-league foe North Andover 9-0 at Indian Ridge Country Club.

Sophomore Co-Capt. Dave Shaffer, playing in the No. 1 position, was the medalist with a one-over 37 and the 1992 All-Conference stand-out also won his head-to-head match 3-and-2.

Sophomore No. 2 man Jeff Mazza carded a 39 and blasted his Scarlet Knight opponent 5-and-4 (the equivalent of a golf shutout).

Completing the AHS sweep were senior Co-Capt. Marc Escott, who shot 45 and won 2-up at No. 3, freshman Pat Anness who fired a 41 and won 5-and-3 in the No. 4 spot, and senior Mike Mazza who carded a 47 and won 5-and-3 at No. 5. Sophomore Jeff Shea, slotted at No. 6, won his match for forfeit and shot a 45.

The Golden Warriors also swept the fourball points.

"A few of the kids were dissatisfied with their scores, and felt they could have played better, but for an opening match it wasn't bad at all," said veteran Coach Bob Lawson.

"This is what they call a rebuilding year for North Andover. I'm just glad to get going and to have a convincing win under our belt."

Andover is in the middle of a busy week, opening its Merrimack Valley Conference schedule with three league matches.

AHS hosted Small School Division foe Greater Lawrence Regional on Tuesday at Indian Ridge CC, travels to face BillERICA this afternoon at the Country Club of BillERICA (3:30 p.m.) and hosts Central Catholic tomorrow afternoon at IRCC (3:30 p.m.). freestyle).

Returning Divers: Kerry Brady (jr.); Joan Sunderland (jr.).

Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald (2nd year): "We have more depth and better balance this year."

"The potential is here to win a couple more meets than last year, with Lowell and Notre Dame Academy the two close losses from 1992 that we could easily reverse."

"In a couple more years, when Diana (Liberty) is a senior, we should be loaded."

"We have an excellent split between classes with 12 seniors, 11 juniors, 11 sophomores and 10 freshmen, which should mean we won't get totally wiped out by graduation for a long time."

"Some of our younger kids will make an immediate impact on the program."

"I'm extremely happy with the team spirit, the leadership of captains Mindy Fox and Whitney Bates, and the year-round commitment that many of the returning veterans made last summer."

"Some of the girls, who were moderate competitors a year ago and finished fifth or sixth, could be consistent second and third place scorers this year because they joined the 'Y' team in the off-season and have improved tremendously."

"The opening meet against Lowell will be a key. We had a fairly close loss to them last year, and they graduated two girls (Spellissy and Hodge) who were an automatic four first places."

"Chelmsford looks unbeatable this year, and Haverhill will be very strong again. Nashua is down slightly, Notre Dame is a team we can definitely beat, and Methuen has a new coach and is probably about two years from being a contender again."

"Lawrence and Billerica did not show at the Relay Carnival, which usually means a team needs the time for extra practice."

Stats & Facts: Coach Fitzgerald is in constant contact with her athletes, because she also helps the Merrimack Valley Pirates traveling team, which includes many of her AHS swimmers ... Reading returns to the schedule and Westford Academy is the second non-league opponent to round out a 10-meet slate ... Eight of the Lady Warriors 10 duals this fall are at home ... The meet at Haverhill, originally scheduled for Friday, Oct. 1 has been moved back a day to Thursday, Sept. 30 at the Hillies' pool ... Every year Coach Fitzgerald brings her team to Bear Island on Lake Winnepausaukee for a weekend at Camp Lawrence. That's where they were last weekend ... Indian Ridge Country Club has become a top feeder program for the AHS squad, with many of the Warrior divers competing on the IRCC team during the summer ... Ronit Shtelyer was a State Meet qualifier in the breaststroke last fall ... Mindy Fox is is top competitor despite a chronic back problem. "Mindy swims on sheer guts," said Coach Fitzgerald, "and we can always count on her to finish first or second in any event she enters."

Assistant Coaches: Mary Wermers (divers); Abby Robb.

Season Opener: Friday, Sept. 17 vs. Lowell (3:30 p.m., Greater Lawrence Regional Vo-Tech pool).

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Leo Lafond (7th year): "I hope we'll be able to finish at least as well as we did last year, and we want to be competitive in every meet.

"Chelmsford and Lowell have tremendous cross country tradition and it looks as though they'll be strong once again this year.

"Charlie Russo finished in the top seven a number of times as a freshman, and he should be No. 2.

"Of the new kids, Leo Blais is a top five prospect and K.C. Hazarika has the potential to finish among the top seven."

Assistant Coach: Russ Wrigley.

Season Opener: Wednesday, Sept. 22 vs. Central Catholic and Lawrence High at Central (3:30 p.m.).

Owner Tom Manzi with new Dodge Ram pickup truck.

Tom Manzi Dodge Inc.

"There's a new kid on the block and I think you're gonna like it. It's called the Dodge Ram, and it doesn't look anything like those boxy jobs you've been driving for the past 20 years," said Paul Lienert, an automotive journalist.

This quote reflects the excitement in the industry about the new Dodge Ram pickup truck. It is the first new truck designed by Dodge in 22 years and the cause of enthusiasm is that "the rules have changed," - changed in the concept, power, safety, design and image of this revolutionary vehicle.

This truck is completely redesigned by engineers and designers who sought the input of the tradesmen who use pickups regularly. Their ideas are reflected in this amazing truck that is new from the bottom up. "The rules have changed" in the comfort. It handles like a car and runs just as quietly. It has comfortable seats that accommodate heavy clothing with adequate space and has knobs that can be easily turned by gloved hands. There is a storage console between the seats where a laptop computer, cellular phone, notebooks and coffee can be stashed, making it an office on wheels. "The rules have changed" in the safety of the Dodge Ram. It has four-wheel anti-lock brakes available and a standard airbag for the driver's seat. The side impact reinforced steel doors meet the 1998 federal safety standards. Durability has been verified by more than four million miles of testing.

The new Dodge Ram is available with engines ranging from six cylinder, eight cylinder, and Cummings turbo diesel all the way up to the Magnum V10 - the most powerful gasoline engine in any American pickup. Every part of this V10 has been specially engineered for power, endurance and reliability. The Dodge Ram is designed to work harder and last longer. "The rules have changed." Stop by Tom Manzi Dodge Inc. to see this revolutionary pickup truck.

Tom Manzi Dodge Inc. has served the area since 1956. Once again they have received the Five-Star Service Award and The Award of Excellence for the third year in a row from Dodge as a tribute to their customer service. Tom Manzi Dodge Inc. is located at the intersection of Merrimack Street and South Broadway in Lawrence. Sales hours are seven days a week. Service hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Thursdays from 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Telephone: 683-9591. Rosemary C. Bernal

"Amanda Verreault and Amanda Grasso were consistent scorers for the varsity last fall, and they figure to be our top two runners this year.

"I think Haverhill will be very strong on the girls side. It looks like Chelmsford, Tewksbury and Lowell could challenge, although Tewksbury lost the twins (Heather and Kim Farrand) and Jennifer Long (Chelmsford) is back at Phillips Academy."

Andover and Lowell did not play the last two years. The Red Raiders have won six of the 10 games between the teams since 1981, but Andover owns a two-game win streak with a 12-6 victory in 1989 and a 21-6 triumph in 1990.

Enchanted Moments

Choosing a wedding gown is a special moment in any woman's life. Fernando and Maria Sousa of Enchanted Moments in Tewksbury have created a shop with warm and caring atmosphere where a bride can find everything she needs. The emphasis at Enchanted Moments is on courteous and friendly service, and the Sousas go out of their way to accommodate the bride and her wedding party and to make them feel comfortable. The shop, which Fernando and his sister have operated for the last three years, relocated to Tewksbury in April. They offer a large selection of gowns and other accessories at the lowest prices in the area.

At Enchanted Moments the gown can be found among the designs of manufacturers such as Victoria, P.C. Mary's or Moonlight; or the staff of seamstresses can copy any design you bring to them with the exception of heavily beaded designs. They can also make flower girl dresses to match the bride's maids' dresses. When Fernando says that he accommodates his customers, that includes putting together wedding party clothing at short notice and altering gowns purchased elsewhere.

Fernando's specialty is creating headpieces. He can copy designs from a picture, or he can create a headpiece especially for you. Each headpiece is carefully stitched together with the emphasis on fine quality and originality at a reasonable price. Shoes can also be decorated to match the wedding gown and headpiece.

Enchanted Moments carries a wide selection of bride's maids gowns and mother-of-the-bride dresses. Tuxedo rentals for the groomsmen are also available.

With the holiday season approaching, now is the time to come and see Enchanted Moments' selection of evening dresses. Whether you favor velvet, silk or shimmering beads, you are sure to find something you like in the shop. If you have a special design in mind, custom-made dresses are also available. As a special offer, bring in this ad and receive 15% off any holiday dress purchase!

Enchanted Moments is located at 1215 Main St., Rt. 38, Tewksbury. Hours are Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 12 to 7 p.m.; Wednesday from 12 to 6 p.m.; Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sundays and evenings by appointment. Telephone: 851-9140. Susan Pokress

TOWN OF ANDOVER TIN RECYCLING PILOT PROGRAM

The Town of Andover in conjunction with Waste Management Inc. is pleased to announce a pilot program to collect tin cans on the curbside recycling route.

Initially, tin cans will be collected from only residents whose normal collection day is Friday. If successful, the program will be offered Town-wide to all residents.

The pilot program will run Friday, September 17, 1993 to Saturday, October 16, 1993. If your collection day is Friday, we ask that you place tin cans in your recycling bin.

The pilot program will run on the following days: commencing Friday, September 17, 1993 and continuing Friday, September 24, October 1, October 8 and Friday's route which will be picked up on Saturday, October 16, 1993.

Recycle

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance: boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes. You can list your recyclable items in the Townsman's newest classified section: "RECYCLE". (FREE of charge) It's a way to clean up your place while acknowledging the world is running out of landfill space. Simply write us listing your recyclables and we'll print them in the paper. No phone calls please.

Shawsheen Rubber agrees to meet Clean Air Act mandates early

By Neil Fater

Shawsheen Rubber Company in Ballardvale has agreed to create a more rapid time table than is necessary under the Clean Air Act in an effort to satisfy neighborhood complaints about the plant.

But company President Denis Kelley wants it made clear that the emissions responsible for the complaints are not "toxic" as some have labeled them.

"There is a great deal of misunderstanding," he told the Townsmen this week. "They continue to refer to (the emissions) as a toxic substance."

Mr. Kelley said errors alter the public's perception of his company.

Earlier this summer, the state Department of Public Health stated gases released from the facility could produce the "chance of sub-chronic and chronic health effects," but made no reference to a "toxic" substance being released.

"Anybody who inhales a noxious fume of any kind can develop asthma-like symptoms," said Dr. Jose Silva, reached by phone for an opinion on the emissions. Dr. Silva is director of the Work Health Department at Lawrence General Hospital.

"This can be sub-chronic in the sense that with removal from the area the person would get better," he said.

Dr. Silva said lengthy exposure could lead to greater problems, although that is completely dependent on the length of exposure and the gaseous concentration.

Because the state did not label the gas as toxic, the doctor said he doubts the problem is of a "serious" nature, but said he figures the state was protecting itself and its citizens as a cautionary measure.

"I suspect the state is a little worried but I suspect they don't have enough (information or proof) to clamp down on the company," he said.

According to Mr. Kelley, his company is not violating any environmental legislation. The company was fined back in 1989 for not meeting air-quality standards.

"We already meet all of the existing state guidelines," he said. "We have agreed to exceed the current state guidelines and to meet the standards of the Clean Air Act," which go into effect in 1996.

The company will submit plans to the state's Department of Environmental Protection by Oct. 15, detailing the alterations the company will enact. The DEP is expected to review the plans and approve them in 60 to 90 days. The company will have six months after approval to enact the changes or face potential fines.

But the chance of the company receiving any fines are slim, said Mr. Kelley.

"To say that they would (fine) us is like saying if you went home and went through a stop sign you would get a ticket," he said. "They have the power to do that but that doesn't mean they will do that."

"I will tell you that if you call up the DEP, we have one of the best relationships," he said. "You won't find anyone in the DEP who will dispute that."

Weekday bus service to Boston cut starting Monday

By Alix Driscoll

Margaret Devlin of 1 Longwood Drive is upset because beginning Monday it will be difficult for her to get to Boston for her weekly commitment.

On Monday, Sept. 20, Trombly Commuter Lines Inc. will run only five trips into Boston starting at 6:20 a.m. until 7:40 a.m., and five trips outbound from Boston from 4:15 p.m. to 5:35 p.m. Mid-day and mid-afternoon service will be discontinued. There has not been bus service on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays for at least a year.

The bus line serves customers in Andover and Lawrence. North Andover stops have been cut from of the schedule. Signs in the buses announced the shortened hours and new schedules have been printed. Reverse commuters who travel to work in this area from the Boston area will not be able to do so by bus.

According to a letter to customers dated Aug. 20, 1993 the reason for the decrease in service is a subsidy reduction from Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority, which was recommended in July. "...the MBTA was recommending a 44 percent reduction in subsidy, which represents a cut from our current round trips per day down to three round trips. Due to the number of daily commuters, and in an effort to continue to provide quality service, Trombly Commuter Lines will endeavor to run five round trips per day in and out of Boston - two of these unsubsidized."

James F. Trombly, president of the company, said yesterday, "I have not received a draft of the contract yet. It is my understanding that I'm only going to get subsidy for three rides. I'll have an obligation to my customers. I take 225 in and 225 out. I can't do that with three buses. I've had to stop the trips to North Andover. Copley Square in the afternoon has been eliminated. We are not involved in the decision-making process at all."

"There is $2,000,000 set aside to service routes for private carriers like myself. Every three years we do a (request for proposal) and they decide how to spend the money in the Boston area. We will try five routes," he said.

According to the new schedule, weekday in-bound buses leave Andover Center at 6:40, 7, 7:20, 7:40 and 8 a.m. Out-bound buses leave Government Center at 4:15, 4:35, 4:55, 5:15 and 5:35 p.m.

According to the new schedule, there are no out-going buses from Boston until 4:15 p.m.

Thompson's Office Products answers to a new name

Thompson's Office Products has been a landmark in downtown Andover for many years. Most people in town are familiar with its layout, which includes a Hallmark card and gift store upstairs and an office supply store downstairs. What many people may not be familiar with is the store's new name.

"When customers call and hear 'Loring, Short and Harmon,' they think they've reached a law firm," said store manager Abigail Robb. Loring, Short and Harmon purchased Thompson's in 1988. The name was not changed at the time of the sale because the Thompson's name was so well known in the community. One of New England's leading office supply companies, Loring, Short and Harmon is based in Portland, Maine. The company employs more than 200 workers and has 12 retail stores throughout Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. Becoming part of a larger company has increased the store's buying power and has enabled it to compete in today's tougher market. Loring, Short and Harmon has many items that are priced competitively with stores like Staples and Office Max.

Although the name has changed, customers can still expect the same quality service and product selection they have always received, with a few additions. The downstairs art and drafting department has tripled in size due to customer demand. It now offers a wide selection of products, including paints, brushes, pastels, calligraphy supplies, assorted papers and anything else an artist could use. Along with this expansion, the entire downstairs will be renovated during the fall to bring in a wider selection of products. As always, customers can continue to custom order any item from the store catalog if it is not currently in stock in the store.

Loring, Short and Harmon has also introduced three "extras" to encourage people to shop in the store.

The first of these is a senior citizen discount. Every Wednesday, anyone over 55 can request 10 percent off any item not already on sale. The only items excluded from this are copies, rubber stamps and personalized stationery.

Also available to customers is a Social Expressions card. This card enables customers to save $5 each time they accumulate $50 worth of sales on paper products such as cards, gift wrap and party goods.

Finally, a discount is offered to all Phillips Academy faculty and students. By simply showing their Phillips Academy ID, students can receive discounts of 10 percent upstairs and 20 percent downstairs on any items already on sale.

Loring, Short and Harmon plans to continue to serve the community with the same quality service Thompson's Office Products has offered for years.

Growing Merrimack College boasts new courses and new facilities

Merrimack College was founded in 1947 by the Catholic religious Order of St. Augustine in response to the large number of former GIs seeking an education. Within a very short time, it became coeducational. The college's mission was to provide a quality education to students of moderate income, especially students living in the Merrimack Valley.

While the mission remains, Merrimack has changed in significant ways: The student body and curriculum have grown, buildings have been added and students come from all across the nation and from foreign countries.

About 500 freshmen are registered for this year's freshman class, 59 more than last year, and more students want to live on campus this year.

Since 1985 there has been a 4-percent increase in freshmen choosing majors in science or engineering, a decline of 11 percent in students choosing business, and an 11-percent increase in students choosing liberal arts majors.

The quality of the class has improved significantly, which is attributed to a significant increase in the college's financial aid. Eighty-one percent of the freshmen rank in the top half of their high school class, compared to 70 percent last year. The percentage of students in the top 25 percent of their class with a combined SAT score of at least 1,000 has increased from 20 percent in 1992 to 29 percent this year.

Seventy-seven percent of class members are from Massachusetts, a 6-percent increase over last year.

New courses at Merrimack include the required "First-year Seminar," piloted last semester. Titles of the seminars are Environmental Science, Technology and Law; Love and Death; A Psychological Perspective on Civilization; Boston Transportation; Civilization, Philosophy and Life; Economic Issues and Perspectives; The Nature of Inquiry; Human Rights; Native-American Spirituality; Social Inequalities; Exile and Redemption; and Tales Out of School (an education seminar).

Central to the seminars is Merrimack's adoption of a teaching method that emphasizes the active involvement of students in learning and the comprehension of how different disciplines are interconnected, such as writing, speaking, listening, critical thinking, reading primary or original sources and conducting research. Students will have more say about class topics and criteria for their grades.

To accommodate the new method, the campus has undergone extensive renovation to create seminar and common-gathering rooms for teachers and students. New to the campus this semester is the American Language Academy (ALA), which conducts English-as-a-second-language programs for foreign students.

The college has also expanded its year-old Center for Corporate Education to include certificate programs in financial planning, financial services, direct marketing and employee benefits counseling.

The Mendel Science, Engineering and Technology Center, dedicated last spring, is Merrimack's newest building. In addition to state-of-the-art laboratories and computer classrooms, it boasts a celestial observatory with the finest telescope north of Boston, according to school officials. The observatory is open to the public one evening a month, weather permitting.

PA welcomes 394 new students for its 216th year

Phillips Academy's 216th year began Saturday, Sept. 11, when 394 new students arrived for registration and orientation.

Fifty-nine Andover residents were among the 94 new day students who joined the PA community from Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, Methuen, North Reading, Boxford, Dracut, Georgetown, Groveland, Haverhill, Lowell, Lynnfield, Middletown, Reading, Tewksbury, Wilmington, and in New Hampshire, Atkinson, Pelham, Plaistow and Salem.

The 394 new students represent 35 states (Massachusetts, New York and California lead the statistics) and 26 different countries. The school's 52 new international students come from countries as diverse as Uruguay, Japan, Australia and Uganda.

When "old" students returned on Monday, total student enrollment reached 1,209. Some returning students were already on hand for boys' and girls' varsity athletic warm-ups, student leadership workshops and international student orientation. "Blue Key" seniors led the new students in a two-day orientation to familiarize them with their campus and town surroundings. Fall-term classes began on Wednesday, Sept. 15.

According to Jane Fried, dean of admissions, this year's incoming students were selected from an applicant pool of 2,145 and have a median class rank in the 94th percentile. Thirty-one

Among the new students is a WBZ radio talk-show host; a member of the Boston and Washington D.C. cast of Les Misérables; a United Nations speaker on photovoltaics; and a recipient of the Red Auerbach Award for best student/athlete.

Jane Fried, dean of admissions percent of the new students are alumni-related, with 2 percent being children of alumni.

Among the new students who have distinguished themselves in a variety of areas is a WBZ radio talk-show host; a member of the Boston and Washington, D.C., cast of Les Misérables; a United Nations speaker on the environmental issue of photovoltaics; and a recipient of the Red Auerbach Award, given by The Boston Globe for best student/athlete, and who served through his school's student government as Massachusetts attorney general-for-a-day.

Forty percent of the student body is receiving financial aid.

Brooks students immerse themselves in school life

Tucked into the pastoral landscape of North Andover is Brooks School, a coed college preparatory school of approximately 300 students who enjoy a country setting on Lake Cochichewick.

Brooks was founded in 1926 and named for 19th-century clergyman Phillips Brooks, a well-known preacher, bishop of Massachusetts and distinguished resident of North Andover. The campus is the former estate of the Russell family, among them William A. Russell, who named the estate "Lakeview Farm" and used it as a summer residence and model dairy operation.

In fact, the current auditorium was originally a stock barn - one of the largest ever erected in North Andover - and sheltered part of a herd of Holsteins that Mr. Russell bred for sale to Midwestern dairy farmers.

Brooks School is primarily a residential community (75 percent of its students are boarding), bringing together students of diverse backgrounds and interests who have in common an enthusiasm to participate in activities and immerse themselves in school life. This willingness to get involved accounts for Brooks' strong showing year after year in athletics, the arts and in a wide range of extracurricular activities.

Perhaps Brooks' greatest strength is its faculty, highly trained individuals who take a personal interest in their students, not just as learners, but as people.

As a college preparatory school, Brooks seeks to be both challenging and supportive. Its fundamental academic goal is to instill in its students a love of learning and a capacity to apply lively imagination and trained intelligence towards living full and productive adult lives.

The school's aim is to stimulate students to develop analytic and creative capacities; to read critically; to think, speak and write with clarity and precision; and to be aware of the larger world beyond the school community.

Brooks is proud of the fact that fully 100 percent of the 1993 graduating class are enrolled this fall at highly-respected four-year colleges and universities across the country.

Part of the Brooks School philosophy is that the confidence and self-discipline that comes with involvement in the school's extracurricular programs, in the performing arts and in athletic pursuits, help accelerate intellectual and social development. By demanding much of the students, both inside and outside the classroom, Brooks challenges them to realize their potential as individuals, yet expects them to become eager participants in the life of the community and the world at large.

Mercedes SL-Class: Practicality is music to one's ears

Mercedes-Benz sports cars have always done more than transport occupants. They have fulfilled the demand for automobiles that blend power, agility and grace.

The Mercedes-Benz SL320 (24-valve, six-cylinder engine) and the SL500 (32-valve, eight-cylinder engine) are a rare breed of sports car. Practicality is not a ready commodity among exotic sports cars, but Mercedes has built these automobiles for the rigors of everyday driving.

The pleasures of reliability, durability and safety engineering are typical of a Mercedes.

These are all-weather sports cars, immune from the sudden changes in weather. Inclement weather is not a problem - even the SL's headlamp wiper/washer system is heated to permit function in sub-freezing weather conditions.

Seating positions can be adjusted with the touch of a button. The CFC-free climate control automatically keeps a preset temperature. The outside air even passes through a fine-mesh electrostatic filter that traps pollen, dust and suspended vapors that are larger than five microns. There is even secure storage for when the top is down - five compartments that lock when you lock the car.

But what good is all the practical equipment without the sounds of one's favorite music on the radio? Mercedes-Benz thought of that too.

Standard equipment on the 1994 SL320 and SL500 models include a sound system, created expressly for the Mercedes-Benz SL by the Bose Corporation.

The SL is the first automobile to feature the Bose Acoustimass® module, a revolutionary sound technology that provides dramatic music reproduction even during top-down driving.

Precise placement of speakers help counteract road, wind and engine noise. In each door are a two-inch tweeter and six-and-a-half-inch mid- to high-range twiddler. The corners of the rear compartment hold two and a half inch twiddlers. For deep, tight bass, the Acoustimass base module with a five and a quarter inch woofer sits in the floor well behind the driver seat.

On the radio one will find separate bass and treble control, as well as seek and scan tuning. The volume is speed-dependent. During acceleration, the volume increases. As the car slows down, the volume decreases - automatically.

The AM-FM radio is also equipped to integrate the functions of the optional cellular phone. When a call is in progress, the sound system automatically mutes.

The 200-watt system includes an auto-reverse cassette player and is prewired for an optional CD changer.

A anti-theft coding system renders the radio useless to thieves and unauthorized removal will sound the vehicle alarm.
